Customer Reviews

My son got this for Christmas. Every single project requires at least a few unusual pieces. He can't build any of them as directed. This was a HUGE let down as he was really excited when he opened this gift. My recommendation: don't buy this product.

Neat little box. But despite having thousands of pieces of lego my son was unable to make many of the ideas. Uses lots of pieces that are not included in many lego sets. Was very disappointing

Nice set of instruction cards. Does not contain any lego pieces. A little disappointed that these use so many unusual pieces that we do not have.

Its ok, the only lacking thing for this set of cards is that it would be nice to have a list of "primary" parts to make most of the projects, and maybe a "secondary" set to make the more difficult ones. No instructions came with it (we figured out that most projects are build upon the previous one... My kid had a great time looking at them and trying them out but there is no coherence in wanting to do more as there isn't a list of parts/elements we could purchase as a whole...

Dissapointing. We couldnt make anything from these cards with all the lego my son had in the house. He looked at them once and never again.

This is a great idea but the directions are confusing & the designs are kinda lame.

Nice ideas, but from our tons and tons of Lego pieces we still could not build almost any of these projects. My son was very disappointed.

When will I learn to read the reviews! We have a lot of Legos but these not only don't always make sense but are made with OBCURR UNUSUAL PIECES! So now I have a useless, dented in transit tin box. I might as well throw away the cards. I'll use the tin to store more Legos. Sigh. What a WASTE OF MONEY.
